NASHVILLE, TN - (June 12, 2025) - Independent artist Kylie Frey returns with an acoustic reimagining of her fan-favorite track “My John Wayne,” available now on all streaming platforms. The acoustic release arrives as “My John Wayne” climbs to No. 11 on the Texas Radio Chart, and earns a placement on Apple Music’s “New in Country” playlist.

Written by Chris Stapleton, Jessi Alexander and Ashley Monroe, “My John Wayne” has become a staple of Frey’s live shows.

“From the very first time I heard this song, I knew it was special, and the more I played it on the road, the more I gravitated towards stripping it down and playing it in its purest form,” Frey reflects. “Releasing this acoustic version feels like the most honest way to honor the song, its writers and the legendary spirit of the original cowboy, Mr. John Wayne.”

“My John Wayne” kicks off a wave of new music from Frey, which continues with a new single release this July, leading up to an EP release this Fall 2025. Fans can catch her next performance on July 5th at the Grand Ole Opry.

ABOUT KYLIE FREY

Carnival Music’s Kylie Frey is a modern day troubadour with a bold, independent spirit that infuses her rich storytelling and traditional country style. The Louisiana native grew up in a rodeo family, learning to rope and ride at a young age, but it was her relentless desire to sing in front of a crowd that drove her to Nashville. Now, with 10 No. 1 singles on Texas radio and touring with the likes of Cody Johnson, Casey Donahew and Randall King, Frey’s affinity for the stage, and the road, continues to gain momentum. She made her Grand Ole Opry debut in 2023, was a semi-finalist on NBC’s America’s Got Talent and was named a CMT Next Women of Country in 2024. With her newest music she continues to establish herself as an undeniably familiar, yet fresh voice in country music, poised for her biggest chapter yet.
